

We have recently released My Blog 2.0.1 and Jom Comment 3.0.1 which includes pretty much of bug fixes since the initial beta release. Some of you might have been wondering why are there more bug fixes as opposed to new features. The main reason is because we are actually modifying the structure of both these components to have backward compatibilities where they both work on Joomla 1.0 and Joomla 1.5 with the same set of codes.

After making these structural changes, we should see some new features added in the next major release of My Blog and Jom Comment.

You may read more on the changelogs for My Blog 2.0.1 and Jom Comment 3.0.1 at the following locations,

My Blog 2.0.1

Jom Comment 3.0.1